Dilip Kumar, Nandita, Sudhir Kapoor, Raj Babbar, Sadashiv Amrapurkar, Ajit P L..Lawyers for a coalition of electricity customers warned against a court granting an emergency interim injunction that would stop clean energy projects and investigate the link between electricity blackouts and the movement of wind farms. But the Federal Court judge Warren Carter was unconvinced and agreed to the move by energy giant AGL to block the $1.5 billion generation project by Pacific Hydro and called on the company to report to his court what action it plans to take in the meantime. Pacific Hydro and all other interested parties had sought the urgent injunction last Friday night before the construction started, but were denied a last-minute request by some consumers in the southwest and the southwest to allow the work to go ahead. The court heard the suit was brought by about 30 AGL electricity customers in the southwest and there were similar disputes in the southwest and about five per cent in the east and west.
